

NCMC certification services

Easy for experienced engineers with contactless expertise.

Deliver a reliable system for high demand operations.

NCMC specifications enable greater interoperability to enable Automated Fare Collection (AFC) systems to be deployed quickly and seamlessly. To be certified by STQC, vendors need to comply with the NCMC interface specification to ensure a high level of quality throughout the whole lifecycle of their products.

How it works.

- Define the scope of testing and necessary packages.
- Register customers and products for certification.
- Onboard users for an efficient testing experience.
- Get remote support with pre-compliance tests.
- Analyze test results to remove bugs.
- Run compliance tests and deliver reports.
- Manage final certification with STQC.

Fime can help you at any stage of your project lifecycle.
